

HERE COMES A BLUEBIRD

(♩ = 120)

Here comes a blue - bird through my win - dow, here comes a blue - bird through my door. Here comes a blue - bird through my win - dow. Hi - did-dle-<sup>3</sup>ie dum dum dee.
Take a lit - tle hop and dance in the gar - den.
Take a lit - tle hop and dance with me. Take a lit - tle hop and dance in the gar - den. Hi - did-dle-<sup>3</sup>ie dum dum dee.

Transcribed from the singing of unidentified school children at Norton Park School, Edinburgh, Scotland, 1949.

Children form a circle, standing still, while raising their joined hands to form arches. One player runs in and out of the circle through the arches. She then chooses a partner and "takes a little hop" in the center of the ring. The first player rejoins the circle, and the second becomes the new bird.